Sexual Harassment Prevention Training Provided to Managers

On December 31, 2008 Holly Schirmer, Director of Business Services for the Alliance for Workforce Development, Inc. facilitated a customized Sexual Harassment Prevention workshop for Northeastern Rural Health Clinics' supervisors and managers. The training, mandated by the passage of California Assembly Bill, 1825 focused on the roles and responsibilities of workplace supervisors in the prevention of and riddance of harassment and discrimination in the workplace. According to Ms. Schirmer, "Supervisors and managers are the eyes and ears of the organization and are the key to maintaining a workplace free from harassment and discrimination. The goal of the workshop is to provide attendees with practice tools that they can use in their day to day work to effectively manage employee behavior." Topics covered during the workshop were:

- Federal and State Anti-Discrimination laws
- What Sexual Harassment is and is not
- How to identify and correct inappropriate behavior before it escalates
- How to handle a complaint

The workshop was very interactive with participants working through several case scenarios to come up with solutions for real workplace issues that they may encounter. Linda Hollingsworth, Chief Operations Officer for

NEHRC stated, “We were very pleased that AFDW was able to offer the SHP training on site for our supervisors. The training was very thorough and gave the staff tools needed to prevent and confront workplace harassment and discrimination, while minimizing time away from daily duties.” For further information on Alliance for Workforce Development, Inc. business workshops and trainings please visit us at www.afwdhr.org

US CENSUS BUREAU TESTING

Lassen Career Network has been fortunate enough to be able to accommodate the US Census Bureau by offering up usage of the facility to help recruit for the prospective 2010 Census Team. Testing sessions have been conducted for open positions such as Area Supervisors and Census Takers on December 29th, January 13th, February 2nd and March 3rd.

To ensure that word of these events got out to our local community, the US Census Bureau supplied Lassen Career Network with both flyers and brochures to advertise these vigorous recruitments. Needless to say, many local and out of area job seekers came out to attend these multiple testing sessions, which also paved an avenue for these job seekers to access additional job seeker services through Lassen Career Network. This partnership proved to be very beneficial to our business community as well as our job seekers. We look forward to being able to partner up with the US Census Bureau again soon.

The Alliance for Workforce Development, Inc. (AFWD) staff was pleased to welcome Betti Austin with Northern Rural Training and Employment Consortium (NoRTEC) to Lassen Career Network to facilitate a staff training session on February 19th. Employees from Lassen, Plumas, Sierra, and Modoc counties were all present for this training event.

Reference Manuals, created by Betti, were passed out containing information regarding different systems used to enter and store client data. INDEPENDENT CITY 2009

After months of planning and preparation, Independent City 2009 came to a successful fruition and conclusion on Friday February 27th. Approximately 70 Lassen County youth and more than 30 adult volunteers participated in this one-day event at the Lassen County Fairgrounds. This was the fourth year this program has been offered to “at risk” and/or low income juniors and seniors in Lassen County schools. It’s an opportunity for youth to learn the skills to move out and live on their own. Each participant is given a “life” including a job, income, and cash available. Each youth must select roommates, set up a bank account, purchase food, find housing and transportation, and decide on other items such as phone and internet services.

Along with Alliance for Workforce Development, Inc. personnel, volunteers came from Lassen County Office of Education, Lassen Juvenile Probation, Lassen WORKS & Community Social Services, Lassen County Alcohol and Drug, Friday Night Live, and many other local businesses and agencies. Community volunteers staffed stations that participants visited including banks, property management offices, the post office, car dealerships, the grocery store, and the phone company. Volunteers also role-played as police and judges to give youth a taste of real-life traffic tickets and other citations.

Every participant was awarded a prize for attending. Prizes included many items that are helpful when moving out on their own. The grand prizes were a laptop, microwave oven, and vacuum cleaner.

Alliance for Workforce Development, Inc. wishes to thank the many volunteers who helped make this event possible; especially Cindy Sanchez from Lassen County Office of Education and Kim Perkins from Lassen WORKS & Community Social Services. Also, our thanks go out to Lassen County Probation for this year’s funding and the businesses and agencies who donated prizes and food to make Independent City a reality.

2009 Annual Career Expo Offers Opportunities for Job Seekers and Businesses

On a bright and sunny March 28, 2009, Lassen county job seekers and businesses met at Jensen Hall, Lassen County Fairgrounds to discuss available jobs, future jobs, and career options in and out of the area. Twenty four businesses were on hand to greet and meet close to 300 job seekers with the intent of filling dozens of open positions within their organizations, and build applicant pools for future positions.

Wal-Mart, Susanville is planning on hiring 65 people to assist with the Susanville store remodel. According to Wal-Mart HR manager, Denise Lewis, "We will need 65 full time employees to assist with the store remodel that is slated to begin in August of this year. In addition, we will also look to keep some of the employees through the holidays." This was just one example of business growth that is planned in the area. Secondly, Frontier Communications is also looking to add a retail outlet in the Susanville area in the coming months. Thirdly, the Veteran's Administration has begun plans to open a veterans' health clinic in the Susanville area. The clinic will serve veterans throughout Northeastern California, decreasing the need for patients to travel out of the area for health services.

"While some businesses are experiencing slow downs, we do have businesses that are looking to grow and expand. The job fair gives the job seekers the opportunity to meet face to face with area employers to discover available jobs and how to apply for work," stated Terri Hiser-Haynes, Alliance for Workforce Development, Inc's (AFWD) HR consultant. "Susanville Supermarket interviewed candidates on site at the job fair, with the goal of filling 5 positions."

The 2009 Career Expo was sponsored by the partners of Lassen Career Network. The Mission of the Lassen Career Network "A Workforce Development and Placement Center" is to establish a "one-stop" career center which will serve as a common point of access for job seekers, employers, and community members for the purpose of education, training, employment, referral, and support services.
